

1. A method of payment for a healthcare service, said method comprising the 2 steps of:
issuing, by an intermediary, a healthcare credit card, debit card or other account 4 mechanism to a healthcare user, wherein the healthcare user agrees to repay the intermediary for charges incurred by the healthcare user; 6 contracting by an intermediary with a healthcare provider, wherein the healthcare provider agrees to perform a predetermined healthcare service and charge the healthcare user 8 a predetermined fee and the intermediary agrees to pay the healthcare provider the predetermined fee charged the healthcare user; and 10 using the card or other mechanism by the healthcare user to tender the predetermined fee for receiving the predetermined healthcare service, wherein the intermediary pays the 12 healthcare provider the predetermined fee and the healthcare user reimburses the intermediary.

2. A method as set forth in claim 1 including the steps of:
2 providing the healthcare user access to a website hosted by the intermediary on a computer network;
4 identifying the healthcare user accessing the healthcare website;
providing the identified healthcare user access to a web page containing healthcare 6 providers contracting with the intermediary; and

selecting by the healthcare user a healthcare provider from the contracting healthcare 8 providers.

3. A method as set forth in claim 2 wherein the computer network is the Internet.

4. A method as set forth in claim 1 including the step of billing the healthcare
2 user by the intermediary for the healthcare service performed by the healthcare service provider.

5. A method of payment for a healthcare service, said method comprising the
2 steps of:

contracting between a healthcare provider and an intermediary for the healthcare 4 provider to perform a predetermined healthcare service for a healthcare user and receive a predetermined fee;

6 contracting between a healthcare user and the intermediary for the healthcare user to pay the healthcare provider when the healthcare service is performed with a healthcare credit 8 card issued by the intermediary;

receiving by the healthcare user the predetermined healthcare service from the 10 healthcare provider;

charging the fee for the healthcare service using the healthcare credit card;

12           paying the healthcare provider by the intermediary according to the contract between the healthcare provider and the intermediary for the healthcare service charged to the 14   healthcare credit card; and paying the intermediary by the healthcare user according to the contract between the 16   healthcare user.

6.       A method as set forth in claim 5 including the steps of:

2           providing the healthcare user access to a website hosted by the intermediary on a computer network;
4           identifying the healthcare user accessing the healthcare website;
providing the identified healthcare user access to a web page containing healthcare
6   providers contracting with the intermediary; and
selecting by the healthcare user a healthcare provider from the contracting healthcare 8   providers.

7.       A method as set forth in claim 6 wherein the computer network is the Internet.

8.       A method as set forth in claim 5 including the step of billing the healthcare
2   user by the intermediary for the healthcare service performed by the healthcare service provider, after said step of paying the healthcare provider.

9. A method of payment for a healthcare service, said method comprising the
2 steps of:
- contracting between a healthcare provider and an intermediary for the healthcare
4 provider to perform a predetermined healthcare service for a healthcare user and receive a predetermined fee;
- 6 contracting between a healthcare user and the intermediary for the healthcare user to pay the healthcare provider when the healthcare service is performed with a healthcare credit 8 card issued by the intermediary;
- providing the healthcare user access to a web site hosted by the intermediary on a 10 computer network;
- identifying the healthcare user accessing the healthcare website;
- 12 providing the identified healthcare user access to a web page containing healthcare providers contracting with the intermediary;
- 14 selecting by the healthcare user a healthcare provider from the contracting healthcare
providers;
- 16 receiving by the healthcare user the predetermined healthcare service from the selected
healthcare provider;
- 18 charging the fee for receiving the predetermined healthcare service using the healthcare credit card;

20           paying the selected healthcare provider by the intermediary according to the contract between the healthcare provider and the intermediary for the healthcare service charged to the 22   healthcare credit card; and
paying the intermediary by the healthcare user according to the contract between the 24   healthcare user and the intermediary as payment for the healthcare service rendered by the selected healthcare provider.

10.     A method as set forth in claim 9 wherein the computer network is the Internet.

11.     A method as set forth in claim 9 including the step of billing the healthcare
2   user by the intermediary for the healthcare service performed by the healthcare service provider, after said step of paying the healthcare provider.